CENTER FOR TEACHING AND LEARNING

Want a quick snapshot of upcoming events? Check out the calendar on our main page.

Course Evaluation Open Forum

> When: Friday, April 11, 2025 |1 –3 pm
> Where: Drinko Library 349 and online
> Info: CTL Announcement
> Registration: Required to receive the online meeting link

Want to voice your opinion about Marshall University's Course Evaluations? Or suggest improvements to the process? Please join us to share your input on how the course evaluation instrument, process, and data use can be improved for students and faculty in the future. There will also be a forum for students on April 4th, accessed through the same registration portal.

Community Based Learning Saturday Workshop

> When: Saturday, April 12, 2025 | 10-1pm
> Where: Online via Teams
> Info: CBL Community Engagement
> Registration: Optional, drop-ins welcome!

Complete all three CBL workshops (A Pedagogical Tool, Reflection, and Managing the Project) in a one-day virtual event. CBL-designated courses provide excellent opportunities for faculty, students, and community partners. These courses can meet the needs of students who want to become more involved in the community or who want experience in interactive environments in areas related to their field(s) of study.

Pedagogy Matters III

> When: April 16, 2025 | 3:00-4:00
> Where: Virtual via Teams
> Info: Pedagogy Matters Webpage

Registration: Required

Join our one-hour workshop on designing course assignments that effectively incorporate or circumvent AI capabilities. This session will guide you in creating assignments that maintain academic integrity while leveraging AI's strengths. We'll explore strategies for crafting tasks that promote critical thinking, creativity, and original work, as well as cover tricks to use AI as a helpful sidekick. Through practical examples and discussions, you'll leave ready to create engaging assignments and ensure educational objectives are met in an AI-driven world.

Research Mentorship Community of Practice

Research Mentorship Community of Practice
For info and registration:
https://www.marshall.edu/ctl/research-mentorship

When: Thursdays, ~~1/23, 2/13, 3/6~~, 4/3, and 4/24 | 2:30-3:30
Where: Online via Teams
Registration: Recommended, not required

The Center for Teaching and Learning is excited to announce the launch of a Community of Practice (CoP) focused on research mentorship for undergraduate and graduate students. This initiative aims to foster collaboration, share best practices, and enhance the mentorship experience for both students and mentors.

Center for Teaching and Learning

304.696.2206
marshall.edu/ctl
ctl@marshall.edu